Regulatory Disclosures

Effective Date: July 1, 2026

1. Purpose

This page provides important regulatory information regarding SGE and the content presented on this website. It is intended to inform users about the nature of SGE's business activities and the regulatory framework applicable to such activities.

2. Nature of Business

SGE provides informational, strategic, and operational support services to businesses seeking to enter or expand operations in the United States. These services include market entry guidance, partnership facilitation, and related business support activities. SGE does not currently engage in securities brokerage, investment advisory services, or any other regulated financial activities unless and until it obtains all required regulatory licenses and approvals.

3. Regulatory Status

As of the Effective Date, SGE is not registered as a broker-dealer with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) or any state securities regulatory authority. SGE is also not registered as an investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 or any applicable state law. SGE does not hold itself out as providing investment advice or engaging in securities transactions on behalf of clients.

4. No Offer or Solicitation

Nothing contained on this website constitutes an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy any securities, financial instruments, or investment products. Any such offers or solicitations, if made in the future, will be conducted only in accordance with applicable securities laws and only in jurisdictions where such offers or solicitations are permitted.

5. Forward-Looking Statements

This website may contain forward-looking statements. These statements are based on current expectations, estimates, and projections about SGE's business, regulatory plans, and the markets in which it operates. Forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties, and actual results may differ materially from those expressed or implied herein.

6. Jurisdictional Limitations

The information on this website is intended solely for persons located in jurisdictions where access to and use of such information is lawful. Users accessing this website from outside the United States are responsible for compliance with all applicable local laws and regulations.

7. No Reliance

The information contained on this website is provided for general informational purposes only and does not constitute legal, financial, tax, accounting, or regulatory advice. Users should consult their own professional advisors before making any decisions based on the information presented herein.

8. Regulatory Compliance

SGE is committed to conducting its business in compliance with all applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations. As SGE's business activities evolve, including potential expansion into financial and investment-related services, SGE intends to obtain all necessary regulatory licenses and to fully comply with applicable regulatory requirements.

9. Third-Party Information

Certain information on this website may be sourced from third parties. While SGE believes such information to be reliable, it does not independently verify such information and makes no representation or warranty as to its accuracy or completeness.

10. Changes to Regulatory Disclosures

SGE reserves the right to update or modify these Regulatory Disclosures at any time. Any material changes will be reflected by an updated Effective Date on this page.
